PLEASANTON, Calif., Sept. 13, 2018 /PRNewswire-PRWeb/ -- Theradome Inc., a Silicon Valley based medical device company, shared positive results from a 120-day consumer study of male participants testing either the Theradome LH80 PRO or the Theragrow laser hair helmet. The study was set for 180 days but with positive results as early as day 120, Theradome was eager to share the outcomes.

A group of 24 participants who were dealing with thinning hair used either one of the helmets for 120 days per the recommended use for each device. Photos were captured at day 1, day 60, and then again at day 120 to show improvement in hair growth and thickness. Positive improvements were captured every step of the way. None of the photos were edited or retouched in any way.

As a result, 100% of the men who consistently used the helmet observed new hair growth along with thicker, more luxurious hair.

In the United States, roughly 35 million men suffer from hair loss due to androgenic alopecia. By the age of 35, 2/3 of American men will experience some degree of appreciable hair loss, and by the age of 50, approximately 85% of men have significantly thinning hair. Both helmets invented by Theradome, harness the power of laser phototherapy to minimize hair loss and promote growth.

"We are thrilled with the results the participants in our before and after group are experiencing," stated Tamim Hamid, Inventor and Founder of Theradome, "Seeing is believing and the increase in hair growth and thickness across the board is undeniable."

Male participants in the test experience shared:

Theragrow SUBJECT 1, 43 years old: "I'm elated. I saw hair actually growing in places that I had never grown before and that was a real eye opener for me. When I would look into the mirror and see little tiny hairs where there had been skin, just scalp. Now all of a sudden there's hair there." - B.R

Theradome SUBJECT 2, 36 years old: "Theradome truly does work. I was skeptical at first but honestly, I first started seeing results probably around the 60-day mark. There was greater growth in the center portion of my head, it was getting thicker and fuller as opposed to as thin as it used to be." - E.S
